Globe Radio Head Phones

The most talked about phones at the Boston Radio Exposition

Highly sensitive, balanced receivers, natural in tone and light weight (only 11 oz.). Each set tested wirelessly.

Your receiving set is only as good as your head phones. Even the hard-of-hearing person can hear with the Globe Phones. We will demonstrate this at the Show.

Ask about the Globe Loud Speaker, a unit absolutely free from distortion.

We are also the sole distributors of the Globe Vactuphone, invention of [illegible], the only hearing device made for the deaf using the vacuum tube amplifier.

Boy Rigs Out His Radio Set for 3 Dollars

CINCINNATI, O., June 5.—Three dollars is all it cost Edwin [illegible], 14-year-old schoolboy, to construct his miniature radio receiving set.

With it Edwin says he can hear radio signals sent from stations up to [illegible] miles away. He can carry it with him and pick up messages wherever he may be. An ordinary umbrella is his aerial.

Edwin perfected this set after two years of study and experimenting. At a cost of about $10 or more, he says, his miniature receiving apparatus would be ready to receive concert music from the nearest broadcasting station.

"FARMRADS"

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Radio is putting new words in Young America's vocabulary.

Among the latest is "farmrad," coined by the department of agriculture as the official designation of the farm radio clubs that have been springing up thruout the country.

The farmrads are the cowpunchers of the air.
